

ADA Transition Planning

This site is maintained by Evan Terry Associates to provide information and technical assistance for public entities that are trying to meet their obligations for transition planning and facilities compliance under Title II of the ADA. Please sign up for updates on this issue at www.AccessUpdates.com.

Training on Transition Planning is available from a number of sources:

Online from the following sources as live and archived sessions:

- AccessibilityOnline hosts free, monthly webinars and audio conferences on different topics of accessibility. AO recently offered a three-part series organized by the ADA National Network. To learn more about this series, register for future AO events, or access audio archives, visit ADA Online Learning at <http://adagreat.powweb.com/Schedule/>. You may download the handout from the third session of the audio conference, “Bringing it all together: Transition plans, barrier removal plans, and action plans”, from March 18, 2014, in our ADA Technical Assistance Section of our website:
<http://www.evanterry.com/resources.asp?section=ADA%20Technical%20Assistance>
- ADA Legal Webinar Series - <http://www.ada-audio.org/Webinar/ADALegal/>
- Accessible Technology Webinar Series - <http://www.ada-audio.org/Webinar/AccessibleTechnology/>
- Disability Law Lowdown Podcasts - <http://www.disabilitylawlowdown.com/>

Additional training opportunities on transition planning:

- NAADAC – the National Association of ADA Coordinators – www.naadac.info
- The National ADA Symposium - Visit their website for conference dates, location, speakers, and information on topics - www.adasymposium.org
- APA – The Accessibility Professionals Association - www.accessibilityprofessionals.org/

Transition Planning Software

ETA is currently compiling a list of software programs to help public entities to develop their transition plans. For updates on this resource as it becomes available, check back here or sign up for email notifications at our Access Updates page at www.accessupdates.com. If you know of software that we should be considering, please contact us at 205-972-9100 or email us at eta@evanterry.com and let us know about it.